

DWELL MAGAZINE + GARDEN & LANDSCAPES

Modern Landscape Designer Breaks New Ground

By William Lamb - March 5, 2014

With a wild approach, award-winning designer Margie Ruddick pushes the boundaries of landscaping.

The near-comic absurdity of the situation was not lost on Margie Ruddick, one of America's most celebrated landscape designers, as she stood before a judge and tried to talk her way out of a $75 fine for letting the weeds in her front yard grow taller than ten inches.

Join Dwell+ to Continue

Subscribe to Dwell+ to get everything you already love about Dwell, plus exclusive home tours, video features, how-to guides, access to the Dwell archive, and more.

Try Dwell+ for Free

Already a subscriber? Sign In

Introducing Dwell+

Subscribe

EXCLUSIVE HOME TOURS

Unlock premium stories only available to subscribers.

Visit the best modern homes in the world with video tours, original photography, and more.

THE DWELL ARCHIVE

Dig into years of Dwell magazine.

Browse by date or issue on any device, and check out our curated rotation of favorite stories.

SOURCEBOOK

The definitive list of products and professionals.

Explore our essential resource for finding everyone—from designers to brands—featured in Dwell.

Email Tweet

Responses

Latest Stories

Designer Doghouses Are Real—and Now You Can Win One

6 Eco-Minded Prefab Companies in Seattle

Finally, an Affordable Couch That's Guaranteed to Fit Through Your Front Door

This Utopian "House in the Orchard" Is Part Home and Part Greenhouse

This 1954 House By Powers, Daly, and DeRosa Features a Koi Pond That Flows Under A Glass Wall