

We offer financial services to both private and institutional investors around the world, with an emphasis on investments in systematically managed alternative investment funds that employ technical analysis as a core principle of their investment strategy. These funds include managed futures funds, which trade futures and forward markets in Europe, Asia and the Americas. They also include funds that trade in equities while using short index positions to reduce the market risk of the investment, so that the performance derived from each stock investment is mainly attributable to price movements in that stock.

We also consult with financial institutions, investment advisors and sophisticated investors to help them structure new product platforms and optimize investment portfolios. We emphasize asset allocation, trend-following strategies, technical analysis, and money management.
