Sensei^{●●●}

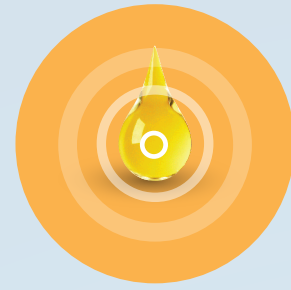

Welcome to Real-Time Lubrication Intelligence. Sensei is a system of Sensing devices connected via a wireless Network and delivering valuable Intelligence about what's happening inside your critical assets. Backed by the experts at Trico to guide you toward maximum uptime, efficiency and confidence.

No more wondering.
No more worrying.
No more wasting time.

Get to know Sensei™ – the only system that helps you keep constant watch on the lubrication inside your critical equipment.

Now, instead of doing the typical lube routes, unnecessary maintenance and emergency service ... your team can move more proactively and efficiently.

Sensei is quick to install. Easy to expand. And brings you everything you need to quickly identify, solve and optimize lubrication issues and keep your equipment running.

The Sensing

Continuously monitoring key parameters at the machine.

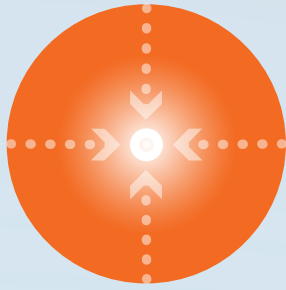

Improve reliability. Your sensors help you know immediately when there's a lubrication issue – before it turns into a serious problem.

Sensei Oil Level Sensors

- Wirelessly transmitting oil level and ambient temperature from your critical equipment
- Easy to install right at the machine

Coming soon: many sensing options to further sharpen insights into lubrication performance and equipment health.

The Network

Bringing you accurate, real-time lubrication data from across your facility.

Save time. Your team knows which machines need attention, instead of walking from machine to machine to check status.

Sensei Gateway

- The hub of the system in your facility
- Connects through your network or cellular router
- Rugged enclosure option for harsh environments

Installs quickly. Expands easily.

- Entire setup takes just minutes
- Optional Repeater expands reach

The Intelligence

Clear guidance to help you ensure reliability and productivity.

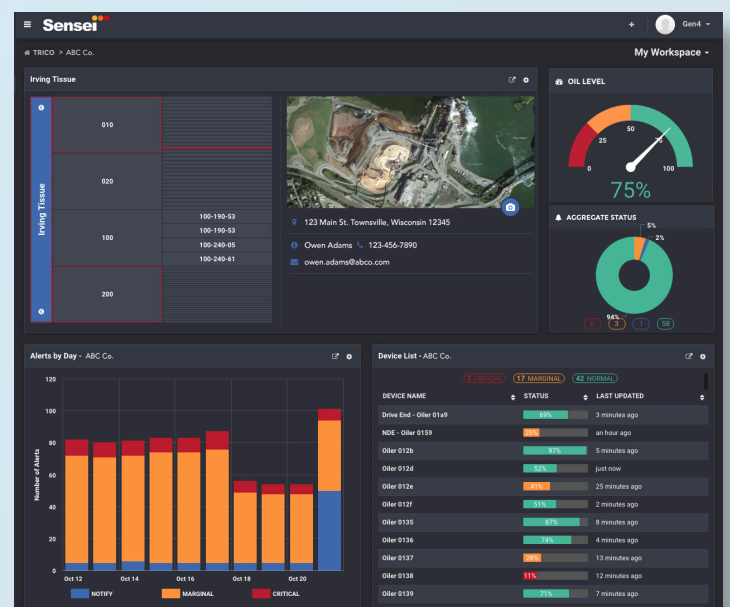

Gain powerful insight. Check key parameters on your dashboard anytime, while Trico continuously monitors your data and recommends preventive actions.

Trico Analysis Center

Applying a century of lubrication expertise to help you understand your data, what it all means for your equipment and how to use it to your advantage.

Sensei Dashboard

Your customizable, web-based home for data monitoring.

The Inspiration Behind Sensei

Are your critical equipment assets at risk from poor lubrication? If you're like many out there, you may not know for sure. That unknown can cause a lot of worry, but that's why we're here. Because when you've been around lubrication for nearly a century like Trico has, you learn a few things along the way. Today, we're applying that knowledge to Sensei and in many other ways ... to help give you a little more confidence.
