"A little more than a week after sending my first digital edition of American Lifestyle I received an e-mail from an old client whom I had sent the online magazine to but haven't spoken to in a long time. He called to say he really enjoyed the magazine, that he was considering purchasing a property, and wanted to get together about it. He bought the property, used me as his buyer's agent, and we close next week! Putting myself out there again with a fun and interesting product actually worked!"
