

Cultivating Relationships

Our sponsors are instrumental in helping us provide greater visibility for the works of Black filmmakers and in our efforts to increase the quality and supply of film festival's demand for black films. They also share the same goals, values, and vision as The Blackhouse organization.

The Blackhouse is able to provide:

- Access to emerging Black filmmakers, producers and writers as well as established Tastemakers and influencers;
- Access to an impressive pipeline of potential creative and executive talent;
- Access to an engaged audience of Black creative voices and executives;
- Brand visibility at key events and across digital platforms

The continued support of our sponsors shows their belief in The Blackhouse vision and mission of giving broader access, exposure, and visibility for projects created by Black filmmakers, producers and executives and in increasing the quality and supply of film festival's demand for black films.

The Fellows Program

Creating a significant impact in the entertainment industry is realized not only through networking and building key relationships, but also through innovative educational programs. Since 2015, The Blackhouse Foundation has sponsored ten (10) current MFA students as Fellows from schools across the country to intern with the Blackhouse Foundation during the Sundance Film Festival. For two years, 2017 and 2018, the Program was generously sponsored by BET Networks.

The Blackhouse Fellows Program offers an excellent opportunity for students at prominent film schools across the country to get hands-on experience at one of the world's premiere film festivals. Fellows assist the Blackhouse Foundation with events and programming throughout the festival.

Our curriculum gives fellows the opportunity to:

- Gain a keen understanding of the film business;
- Interact with experienced and seasoned filmmakers;
- Get insight on the festival submission, selection and distribution process;
- Learn about future trends in the industry;
- Collaborate with other future leaders in the industry.
- Teaching to Produce Mastery
- We are committed to the development of future filmmakers, producers, and behind-the-scenes professionals.
