

TABLE OF CONTENTS

- Best 4K HDR streaming device
- Best voice-controlled media streamer
- Other options to consider
- What to look for in a media streaming device
- Our latest media streamer reviews

Updated May 19, 2020 to add our in-depth TiVo Stream 4K review. While we like several of the ideas in TiVo's new product, it doesn't rise to the level of best in class in this category.

Best 4K HDR streaming device

Amazon Fire TV Stick 4K

●●●●○ Read TechHive's review

$34.99 See it
on Amazon (Prime Eligible)

Amazon's new Fire TV Stick sheds past mistakes and streams 4K HDR at an unbeatable price.

Amazon got pretty much everything right with its latest streaming stick. The Amazon Fire TV 4K of course supports 4K streaming, but it also delivers all the HDR formats you could want (including HDR10+ and Dolby Vision), it supports Dolby Atmos soundtracks for truly immersive audio, and it includes hardware-accelerated MPEG-2 video decoding for cord cutters who want to stream live TV over their home networks.

You'll find Amazon's Alexa digital assistant onboard, too, and the new remote can control your TV's power and volume—including a mute function. It's not absolutely perfect—YouTube TV subscribers will be disappointed to hear they've been ignored—but it is the best deal in media streaming hardware you can buy today.

Runner-up

SPONSORED BY ADVERTISING PARTNER

Sponsored Video

Watch to learn more

SEE MORE

TOP DEALS ON GREAT PRODUCTS

Picked by Techconnect's Editors

Sony's must-have 1-year PlayStation Plus subscription is 50% off

Plan your digital estate for just $150