Keep Your Employees Safe!

Are your operators trained to operate each piece of equipment they are driving? Have your experienced operators remained OSHA compliant with refresher training? Every company has a responsibility to provide equipment safety training, which keeps your employees and product safe.

Why choose ProLift Industrial Equipment for your safety training needs?

- This is our industry. We've dedicated members of our team solely to training. Our trainers bring years of material handling experience and knowledge to your training.
- You pick the date and time convenient to your production, giving you the ability to cover operators working different shifts. Plus, we don't upcharge for Saturdays!
- When you have fewer students, a training class at one of our ProLift locations offers a cost-savings to your company.
- We'll provide accurate records for your files in the event of an OSHA visit.
- You will receive reminders in advance when an operator is due for refresher training.

We provide operator and train-the-trainer options for:
