CNC Machining

Consistency, quality, accuracy and cost savings: These are among the advantages of CNC (Computer Numeric Control) machining. To our customers, Eagle offers parts that can be made to the most exacting specifications. From a dozen to ten thousand parts, each one is the same as the next, crafted to Eagle standards of quality.

Eagle Machinery & Supply Inc. is a proud user of HAAS CNC Machining Centers. If precise computer controlled machining of parts could be an asset to your business, contact Eagle. Our CNC services are ready to exceed your expectations.

Production Welding and Fabrication

The same knowledge and experience that goes into our engineered machinery systems also goes into our welding, fabrication and repair services. Eagle offers MIG wire feed welding for production and fabrication, Stick Electrode welding for heavy structural applications or onsite repairs and MIG Aluminum welding services.

For contract production welding, custom fabrication or repair services, count on Eagle for quality workmanship and performance before, during and after the sale. If you have complete prints or simply an idea, our staff will be happy to help you with your project.
