Co-founder Amelia's vegetable garden has always provided an enormous bounty of produce. With this surplus of organically grown, nourishing produce, we began a company Farm Share program to share our harvest with our Wisconsin employees.

Throughout the 20-week growing period (roughly June through October), each participant receives a free box of organic produce, grown by the GoMacro farm team. Delivered to the facility weekly, in our upcycled nut butter buckets, every share contains a wide range of fresh fruits and vegetables, alongside recipes, nutritional information, preservation ideas, and more.

"I first knew that the program was a success when employees would see me at the facility, for various reasons, they assumed I was bringing produce from the farm. They would excitedly ask me what I had brought that day. There was an increased interest in what was growing at the farm, strengthening the bond between the farm and the GoMacro facility, week by week. We're proud to have introduced the employees to a variety of organic veggies and fruit."

– Ronda Dallmann, GoMacro Garden Farm Manager

The Farm Share program provides easily accessible produce to GoMacro employees, and allows them the opportunity to try new fruits and vegetables. Throughout the growing season, recipients will get to enjoy everything from cauliflower to arugula, and rhubarb to rutabagas.

Giving Back

Pay it forward. Give back. Change the world.

We believe in building a stronger, healthier community through giving back. Four of our MacroBars are Give Back Bars with a portion of their proceeds going to community organizations.

Feeding San Diego

Farm Sanctuary

During the month of May, a percentage of net proceeds from our Protein Replenishment MacroBar go to Farm Sanctuary. The organization brings awareness about the abuses factory farm animals suffer and works to combat these through rescue, education and advocacy efforts. Promoting a compassionate vegan lifestyle, they educate millions about the benefits of a plant-based diet for the improvement of our health, the conditions of farm animals and the health of our environment.

Keep A Breast Foundation

During Breast Cancer Awareness Month in October, a percentage of net proceeds from the Sunny Uplift MacroBar go to the Keep A Breast Foundation. The Keep A Breast Foundation promotes breast health awareness and education among young people by approaching the topic in a manner young people understand and can connect with. They also promote healthier living through the Non-Toxic Revolution, consuming food and using products free of toxic chemicals. Help us provide the education to beat breast cancer.
