A-PLUS Personal Lines Loss History Solutions

You don't have to choose between cost savings and a great customer experience.

Understanding claims history is critical to accurate initial quoting, but to save money, many insurers delay ordering loss history data until just before bind.

There's a better way. Verisk can deliver customizable loss history options at point of quote to help optimize expenses.

Six reasons to move loss history to point of quote

It's a familiar conundrum for many insurers: Ordering loss history is expensive, but not having all the facts until just before binding a policy may lead to a second rate call that's significantly higher than the first.
