Training & Support Sessions

Across the country this spring, parents and caregivers were thrown into the job of supporting their students' education as schools moved online. As we approach the start of the new school year, it looks like many schools will continue with virtual learning. And we know this comes with many challenges.

In order to help parents and caregivers navigate virtual learning, Insight Education Group has developed a series of trainings to help equip "Home Learning Coaches" with the ideas, tools, and conversations to ensure the success of both adults and student(s).

- Sessions offered via live Zoom meetings. Attend from anywhere!
- See calendar below for dates and times. Note certain sessions will be conducted in Spanish.
- Sessions are listed in the suggested order of completion. Though it's not necessary to take each session in this order, the topics are designed to build from the session before in terms of complexity and specificity.
- Each session is 90 minutes long.
- Sessions are interactive, will provide practical ideas that can be implemented immediately, and will include collaboration with other parents and caregivers. Be ready to learn from and with others who are supporting their students!
- Cost is $49/session, includes participant guide.

The Role of the Home Learning Coach

The pandemic has created a new role in the education world—that of a Home Learning Coach! With virtual learning, parents/caregivers often play an integral role in guiding and coaching students as they complete the activities, tasks, and assignments provided by their teachers. We know it can be A LOT! Come to this session to learn how you can help support your student in the most effective and efficient way that allows them to maximize their independence and you to maintain your sanity.

Structuring the Learning Environment

Most kids need a consistent structure to feel safe and productive in a long-term virtual learning environment. This includes the physical space in which they work, as well as the tools and structures they use to organize their tasks. This session will help Home Learning Coaches identify your student's unique learning styles and build structures that will promote their successful independent work completion and meaningful learning.

Motivating Your Learner

We've all been there: nudging kids out of bed to complete the day's virtual learning tasks and then trying to keep them focused throughout the day. Add to that the uncertainty of the times and possible confusion about the school work assigned and it can be very difficult to keep students engaged and overwhelming for Home Learning Coaches. Join this session to learn valuable tips to motivate the virtual learners in your home.

Asking the Right Questions

Asking your student good questions is a key component of helping them learn. Good questions are those that push their thinking and help them understand and be able to apply their learning to real-life situations. Come to this session to learn more about and practice asking the right questions.
