

About SourceForge

Founded in 1999, SourceForge is a complete software platform for open source and business software.

SourceForge is an open source software community resource dedicated to helping open source projects be as successful as possible. We thrive on community collaboration to help us create a premiere resource for open source software development and distribution. SourceForge also offers a business software and services comparison directory with thousands of B2B software and services categories. Together, our open source and business software directory makes SourceForge the largest complete software platform in the world.

With the tools we provide, developers on SourceForge create powerful software across over 502,000 projects; we host millions of registered users. Our popular directory connects nearly 30 million monthly users with all of these open source projects and serves more than 2.6 million downloads a day. Our open source toolset includes code repositories, download binary hosting, bug tracking, version control, download statistics, mailing lists, discussion forums, and more.

Our business software directory lists over 79,000 software titles, and offers robust tools for business software and service comparisons and buying decisions, which allows B2B professionals to compare software and services by price, user reviews, integrations, deployment, region, support and training offerings, and more. Our team of business software and service experts are constantly analyzing the B2B SaaS and service industry to bring users and B2B software shoppers the most up to date and cutting-edge analysis and comprehensive research. SourceForge provides powerful tools for business software and services vendors to accurately showcase their offerings to potential buyers.

Software is becoming integral to every aspect of business and life. At SourceForge, we realize this and strive to make software research, comparison, development, and discovery as simple and straightforward as possible. We have over two decades of experience and expertise building software research and development tools. In terms of traffic, SourceForge is one of the most visited websites in the world.

IT professionals come to SourceForge to develop, download, review, and publish open source and business software. SourceForge is the largest, most trusted destination for software discovery, software reviews, and software development on the web.
