

What Does Your Data Say About You?

Ridgeline Helps Organizations Perform In The Era Of Ubiquitous Technical Surveillance

Does Your Competition Have Your Data?

Countless sensors are tracking you. These sensors are everywhere, collecting and selling your data to huge, unseen networks. This constant gathering of information for targeted purposes is known as Ubiquitous Technical Surveillance (UTS), and it's the reality of the world we live in today.

At Ridgeline, that's the problem we tackle daily for our clients in Government and the business world. Our solution is Digital Signature Management – using technical and behavioral means to understand, control, and shape the story your data tells – to defend your competitive edge.

About Us

Ridgeline is laser-focused on solving our customers' toughest data challenges. We take a comprehensive approach to Digital Signature Management that's been developed through hands-on work and close partnership with our Government customers that has expanded to work with enterprises across a wide variety of industries. Digital Signature Management is not just digital privacy, cybersecurity, data analysis, or tech integration, it's all of those combined and more. We provide consulting services, training, and software solutions to help you do business according to your needs.

Markets We Serve

The world as we know it has changed. Ubiquitous Technical Surveillance gives competitors, partners, media, and the public unfettered access to massive amounts of information about your enterprise. Imagine your adversary learning about your emails, financial transactions, and business decisions. Would you be comfortable with your competition knowing where you travel, with whom you meet, or what your next investment will be? This happens in every industry every day, and most have no clue. Ridgeline helps defend you against these threats.
