Gott's Roadside

Classic American food is what you get at Gott's Roadhouse. I would go to Gott's for a burger and fries. Sit in the patio and enjoy the ambiance. Both beef and chicken are yummy. They have other food options that are tasty: salads, fries, tacos and milkshakes.

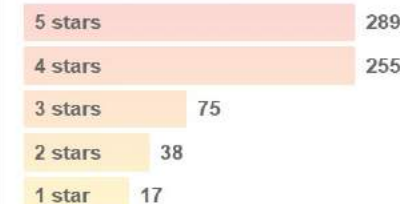

Today there was a special event, a pop-up/joint venture with Milk Bar from New York City.

I made a reservation (on Resy) indicating my interest in attending the event. They do have a walk-up line too which is popular. On sale were sweet goodies and branded items at the merchandise tent.

I got several $3 compost cookies (sweet & salty add-ins to a plain cookie base) and a cereal milk soft serve ($6). The neighboring tent had a spinning game wheel with prizes (pack of cookies, chocolate covered cake truffles, free shipping or some merchandise).

 From my spin, I won a Milk Bar t-shirt! Whooo hoo!
 Nice that Gott's is getting business from partnering with other food businesses. Milk Bar's cereal soft serve was smooth and super sweet (just like when you have breakfast cereal). The cookies I have as a treat later. The pop-up lasts through 8/1/21.

One of the last indie movie houses. They are showing an eclectic mix of current and classic films; some screening of opera simulcast from New York or abroad.

You get to meet your neighbors or other locals here! A hidden gem! They are screening Road Runner, a documentary about Anthony Bourdain. Also French & other foreign language film.

Yelp Elite Week: Red Bay Coffee

Yelp Events

1 Ferry Building

San Francisco, CA 94111

★★★★★ 7/24/2021

Yelp hooked us Elite Yelpers with a deal at Red Bay Coffee.

This was an "in-person" event where all Yelpers who checked in got a cute Yelp tote with a pouch of Red Bay Coffee, a pin, sunglasses and a coffee sleeve. Pretty nice ! Then when checking into Red Bay Coffee we got the 415 deal of two cold brews for $4.15 + a special charcoal latte! Even more...Additionally, we got a Yelp mug and 3 packets of coffee! The cold brews hit the spot mid afternoon. The charcoal latte I gifted to my friend. It helped clean her insides(?). It stained her lips for sure. All the gifts were awesome! I was feeling like a little kid at Christmas!

Thursdays farmers market brought me over to the area. Red Bay Coffee helped fuel me and my friend up!

We were delighted by the reception at the nearby nook where we spotted San Francisco Yelp Community Manager Carmina and the new East Bay CM Emma. Just by checking in (as a regular Yelper), they gave away a Yelp tote with sunglasses, a foam cup sleeve, a card with the 415 deal info and a package of coffee beans!

Inside the coffee store we took advantage of the 2 for $4.15 cold brew deal! For Elite Yelpers (me), I also got a charcoal latte which I handed over to my friend. The charcoal latte was helping to clean up her insides (it's a charcoal thing) but the side effect was she had black charcoal stains on her lips :)

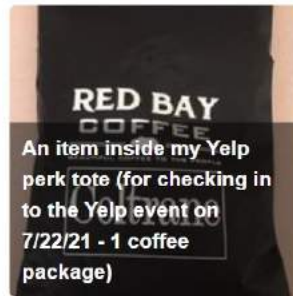

Cold brew with almond milk was yummy. But wait! There was even more! Elites got another goodie bag with 3 packages of coffee, a Yelp mug and a pin with the saying "Black Coffee."

I learned Red Bay Coffee business emphasizes bringing fair trade and support to coffee farmers AND also hiring diverse people who normally are not represented in this industry. Double good: awesome business & coffee.

Part of my gift as a Yelp Elite during the Red Bay Coffee event 7/22/21. 3 packages of coffee(!); all different varieties!

An item inside my Yelp perk tote (for checking in to the Yelp event on 7/22/21 - 1 coffee package)

Project Juice

★★★★☆ 7/20/2021

I stopped in to see if Project Juice still carried Turmeric Milk, a smoothie. They didn't :( But they had an Immunity Latte which I ordered.

It's a hot drink which I appreciate cause the City has cold mornings.
 The latte is interesting since it has the beautiful yellow coloring of turmeric.
 There's a lot of other good ingredients too. Tasty!
 I will return to order this again. Wanna stay healthy!

If i had to have a nutritious meal in a cup, I'd get this Just acai smoothie! It has all those good ingredients from an acai bowl blended up in a drink. This location is easy peasy...on the way to the Marina for an outdoor workout or to any of the nearby gyms (Equinox, Crunch, etc). This shop is sister to the Inner Richmond shop but super convenient when I'm in the northern neighborhoods of San Francisco (Cow Hollow, Russian Hill, Marina or Presidio). Spanking new. Try this place!

7/27/21 I returned and ordered a custom acai bowl. The many bases & toppings made my bowl a rainbow of colors. Super healthy eats!

Great foodie place to duck into on a cold summer day! Even nice on a warm day since it's on the water with Bay views.
Having lunch is a snap. Farmers market days are spectacular!
I like to look for foodie gifts or stock up for a picnic at the shops.

San Francisco is blessed that locals had the foresight to preserve the native Indian lands without disturbing the majestic trees and plants. This grove has been a treasure for performing arts lovers. I've been to many concerts here at Stern Grove with family and friends. Now we are able to gather again...through lottery draw. Luckily, I decided to waitlist the 4th of July concert with SF Symphony because I got tickets ! The music in the open space of the grove is delightful. The weather is surprisingly comfy as the overcast clouds are blanketing in the heat of the day. This is a great to celebrate America's birthday as an independent country. Happy 4th.
