We at the White Coat Collective invite you, our friends and colleagues, to connect virtually with us across the internet to show support for one another. Light up the internet with these hashtags to lift one another in these difficult times. Let’s show solidarity and stand strong for fellow physicians working tirelessly, risking their lives, and self-isolating from their loved ones. We need to show the world that we are holding on tight to our physicians and we will not let them fall.

Disclaimer: Please be responsible when accessing your social media. If you are working at the time please follow the rules of your local government and local workplace.
