General Practices Love Mobile Specialists

Access to a mobile specialist such as a board-certified surgeon, internist, cardiologist, or radiologist allows the general practitioner to integrate advanced veterinary practices into his or her own clinic, provide a better and more familiar experience to their clients, and develop a new revenue model instead of referring the business outside the clinic.

Our clients appreciate MOVES' expertise and consultation within the comfort of their primary vet hospital. As a general practitioner, I rely on Dr. Bonadio's expert advice for complicated cases and it makes my job less stressful knowing that I can work so closely with a specialist. I am very grateful for the mobile expertise, knowledge and experience that Dr. Bonadio provides to me and my clients. She has helped increase the level of high-quality care that we can provide in our general practice and I highly recommend MOVES to any small animal practitioner.

Privacy - Terms

I cannot say enough good things about MOVES and their specialists. The benefits are tremendous for the clients, the patients, the hospital, and our staff. All of the specialists provide an extremely high standard of care, are very respectful of our staff and hospital, and we have had extremely positive feedback from our clients about providing specialist-level care in our hospital. In most cases, we are able to offer services at a discount from what our local specialty hospital would charge, so the clients pay less, the pets receive excellent care, and it's profitable for us. It's a win, win, win!
