These gave my granddaughter the incentive to want to do this practice.

Reviewed in the United States on April 8, 2020

My 2 1/2 year old granddaughter never really cared about stringing the wooden beads my daughter-in-law suggested I buy for her.

I saw these wooden stringing animals and fruits and vegetables so I bought them for my granddaughter since she loves anything to do with animals and fruits and vegetables and little people.

As soon as she saw them she started doing them and it didn't take long for her to Learn how to string these wooden animals and fruits and vegetables with the wonderful wood thread stick that is included.

She is not one to have a long attention span but she definitely did all three strings.

I tied them up and three more times during the day she asked, Again?

I think I want to buy another set or two or three. They are the best most interesting and fun for my granddaughter In the area of beading wooden things I have found!

Good service

I saw these somewhat similar at my son's speech therapy (vehicles theme) so I decided to buy a different one. It keeps both my son and daughter engage and helps them with motor skills. The best part about buying these is the service. One of the wooden toys didn't have a hole so I emailed the owner. She sent new ones right away.

More versatile than circles and squares!

Great fun for 2 1/2 -4 year old toddlers. Create necklaces and take apart a few minutes later when your style changes! Great activity for small motor development and it's easily supervised. Stories can be created for each sequence of beads/characters. I recommend getting at least 1 set per child /student participating in the craft session.

Great Product

My 18 month old granddaughter loves this toy. It is teaching her so much. Colors, shapes, animal, fruit, vegetable names on top of learning to thread. She brings me the item before she tries to string it so I can tell her what it is, and if it's an animal we try to make the animal sound.

My 3 year old grandson likes this also, just not as much as my granddaughter. He will sit with us and thread the 'beads' and he likes to tell me what his item is. I wish I had this for him when he was younger! I will be looking to see what other items like this I can get for them for Christmas.

We love the beads and the seller!

Reviewed in the United States on June 6, 2020

These are fantastic durable beads! I have a toddler and a preschooler who frequently play with and wear these beads around. They are big enough that I do not have to worry about them as a choking hazard, durable enough to survive a teething toddler (still in great condition, no peeling etc), but not so large my kids necklaces are cumbersome. My preschooler loves all the shapes and pictures: animals, fruits, vegies etc. , and I love her enjoyment and motor skill development. Originally these were lost in the mail, but on contacting seller, seller was kind and sent a prompt replacement. (If only it were always this easy with online orders.) Overall we have two little ones and a Mom who are very happy with this purchase.

My 2 yr old loves it!

The pieces are painted wood (I'm not sure if they meet the lead standard or not...but can't be helped). Aside from that, string toys are always a win. They help with fine motor and problem solving. He still can't string it completely by himself, maybe bc the stick is thin? He definitely tries. I usually start it for him and ask him to pull, lol. But we'll get there. It comes with 4 strings and the pieces are all in my picture. We like it though.

Super cute !

Reviewed in the United States on June 8, 2020

I think this toy is super cute for toddlers. It's a safer alternative to regular beads because these beads are much bigger so they're not a choking hazard, but it can still work on fine motor skills. Also the animals and foods are super cute and colorful which is great to teach your child how to label many animals and foods.

Bought this for my 2 year old granddaughter. With a little practice she was able to string the beads. The animals and fruits and vegetables are very colorful and easy for little hands to play with. A great quality toy!
