★★★★☆ Perfect for Magic: the Gathering Tokens!

Reviewed in the United States on June 13, 2020

Verified Purchase

I play Magic: the Gathering casually with friends. Some cards come with blank cards for you to draw/write on, but I have a problem with the fact that when you draw on them they're permanent. So I went looking for dry-erase cards so I can make mainly tokens, but can also track Commander damage or poison counters or whatever else might come up in the game. I found these and I love them.

The only downside is that sometimes no matter how much or how hard you try to remove the marker, smears of the color sometimes stay on them. This should be easily fixed with a marker remover spray, but nevertheless I wanted to point this out. Any MtG players out there who are looking for the same thing, I highly-recommended this product because it does exactly what I want it to.

Honest opinion

★★☆☆☆ Dry erase playing card size. Not sharpie friendly. Would not purchase again/recommend.

Reviewed in the United States on June 28, 2020

They smell horrible when you write on them with a sharpie. Truly only for dry erase. Wish I could return them. But I've used one and a half little packs trying to make flash cards and they smell too bad to be used.

★★★★☆ Great for students!

They can be disinfected. Reuse for on going lesson expansion. Value in like with making each student their own set.

They can be hole punched and put on a book ring.

Love them, but should have thought it through better. They're definitely dry erase. If I write spelling words on them, stack them and flip through them: the words will rub off. Which I'd rather them come off easily than stain, so great quality!!

★☆☆☆☆ Not good for flash cards

Reviewed in Canada on April 17, 2020

Verified Purchase

I bought these for language study as I thought it would be more economical and environmentally friendly in the long run. However, they do not hold writing at all. As soon as you touch them or pile them, the writing rubs off. I like the concept but it was pointless to buy them. I have to buy card stock cue cards in the end after all.
