

SPECIFICALLY ENGINEERED TO EXTEND AND ENHANCE YOUR COSMETIC PIGMENTATION PROCEDURE

Scalp Micro Pigmentation is in the range of $1,500 to $5,000. Over time the procedure and pigmentation fade resulting in costly touch-ups. FUSE is designed to help prolong your procedure resulting in less touch-ups and keeping your procedure looking great longer.

After Care for your procedure is imporant.

FUSE is fast absorbing and can be applied to the scalp before sunscreen making it an easy addition to your daily routine. Designed with a Matte Finish to eliminate scalp shine and blend with existing hair follicles. Tiger grass helps to minimize and promote scar reduction while Aloe & Vitamin E helps with skin blemishes and promotes a youthful look.

What's the difference between a tattoo and a SMP procedure?

Scalp micropigmentation (SMP) procedures are specifically geared toward mimicking the appearance of a full head of hair. They are meant to restore confidence, not to stand out. A tattoo, however, is meant to stand out, to be vibrant so others notice it. Tattoo lotions maximize exposure and help achieve this look. For Scalp micropigmentation (SMP), you really need the opposite effect. It needs to blend your procedure with existing hair follicles rather than be highlighted and obviously noticeable. FUSE serum helps your pigmentation procedure blend in with existing hair follicles and look fuller while eliminating shine making the procedure unnoticeable.

What is the difference between other tattoo lotions or ointments out there vs FUSE?

While you might think it's better to maintain your SMP procedure with an ointment, doing so can actually be harmful. Experts claim applying too much ointment or certain tattoo aftercare products suffocates the tattoo and encourages bacteria growth.

Even with existing hair follicles combined with your Scalp Micropigmentation procedure, FUSE serum is very light and fast absorbing leaving no residue.

I've tried a lot of various products over the last few years but nothing gave me the satisfaction and the natural looking result that I was looking for until I tried FUSE. It's not greasy or flaky at all.
