Celebrate Teacher Appreciation Week with Over Eight New Courses to Foster and Inspire Educators!

Amazing teachers inspire, encourage, and help shape the people we become. To say they meaningfully change lives every day is an understatement. This Teacher Appreciation Week, May 5-9, let's pause and take the opportunity to thank the teachers in our lives — past, present and future — for their dedication, enthusiasm, and hard work.

Thank you, teachers!

Here at Coursera, we are dedicated to helping educators improve their skills and learn from their peers. One of Coursera's core product pillars is to offer a top-notch, innovative platform on which our partner institutions' instructors can properly teach high-caliber courses to thousands of students at a time. But that's not all. Coursera also hosts courses specifically for teachers—from the elementary school level to universities and beyond—to hone their skills and grow their personal pedagogical toolkit. We encourage instructors, parents and anyone else interested in education to check out our exciting new series of Teacher Professional Development courses.

This Teacher Appreciation Week, join one of our starting-in-May Teacher Professional Development courses (in order of start date):
