In finding that Applicant’s mark is likely to be confused with prior U.S. registrations, Applicant submits that the Examining Attorney failed to consider a number of similar marks for similar and related services, in particular those yellow-highlighted above, which establish collectively that Applicant’s mark is unlikely to be confused with the cited registrations . See In Miss World (UK) Ltd. v. Mrs. America Pageants, 856 F.2d 1445, 8 USPQ 2d 1237 (9th Cir.

1988) (finding that a "crowded field" of marks "each member of the crowd is relatively "weak" in its ability to prevent use by others in the crowd." Id., at 1449 (citing McCarthy, Trademarks and Unfair Competition § 11 :26, at 511). A mark that is "hemmed in on all sides by similar marks on similar goods cannot be very 'distinctive' and is "merely one of a crowd of marks." Id. "In such a crowd, customers will not likely be confused between two of the crowd and may have learned to carefully pick out one from the other." Id. Applicant submits that when the entirety of relevant third-party registrations is taken into consideration, there is no likelihood of confusion between Applicant's mark and any of the prior registrations cited by the Examining Attorney.
