Find support for migraine and cluster headache

Migraine and cluster headache communities

You don't have to endure headache pain alone. It's helpful to have a support system, and connecting with others can make a difference.

Organizations like Clusterbusters and the American Headache Society are organizations dedicated to finding relief from headache pain through research, education, advocacy, and support. You can learn more about recent research studies, attend upcoming events, and connect with others who have migraine or cluster headaches. Use the list below for additional support with headache pain.
