PAYMENTS & CUSTOMER SERVICE

Can I change my loan payment due date?
Unfortunately you will not be able to change your loan payment due date.

How is my loan payment date calculated?
Your loan payment date is based on the information you provided on your Paycheck Frequency and Next Pay date.

When will my installment loan payments be due – and what are my repayment options?
Your payments may be electronically withdrawn. To view your payment schedule, refer to your loan agreement. Before your loan's due date, you may also be able to set up a different form of payment – such as debit card, cashier's check, money order or MoneyGram, please call us at 1-800-316-4220. Repaying your loan earlier could save you money on interest.

Can I call or visit my Check 'n Go store if I want to make an installment loan payment or get help with my installment loan application?
Because the installment loan is serviced online, payments and other services in connection with the installment loan cannot be handled at the store. Check 'n Go, servicer for CCBank, has a dedicated team of loan specialists who are trained to answer your questions about making payments, completing the application and more. You can contact them 1-800-316-4220. They're ready to provide the same friendly service that you've come to expect at your Check 'n Go store.

After I pay off my installment loan, can I get another installment loan?
Yes, you can apply for a new installment loan after your current loan has been paid off. Keep in mind that there may be a waiting period before you can apply for a new installment loan. You may also be asked to provide a bank statement showing that your loan was paid off.

How can I view my account information or check the status of my installment loan application?
To view your information or check the status of your application, log in to My Account by entering the email address and password that you provided to us when you applied for your installment loan. Once you've logged in, you can check the status of any outstanding loans, update information, review documents, apply for a new installment loan, check to see if there are any documents you still need to send in or see when your next payment is due. To print copies of any documents, simply select the print option in your Web browser.

Why do I have to open an account online if I already have a Check 'n Go account with the store?
Since the installment loan is issued through our online channel, a new account must be created to apply.

Only copy changes to copy, other than the hero are the top two question.
